

INSTITUTE FOR CONTEMPORARY
LEADERSHIP

Organizational Accelerator

Driving Organizational Responsiveness Through Enterprise-wide Agile Transformation

To remain competitive in today's business environment, characterized by rapid change and increased complexity, leaders must adopt new, more agile ways of working across the entire enterprise. This represents a significant transformation that can stretch organizations in multiple directions: they must increase alignment, responsiveness, and the ability to predict outcomes and timelines while letting go of traditional command and control operating models.

Informed by a dozen successful, large-scale business transformations, the latest business agility thinking, and insights from the natural and social sciences, this workshop explores how leaders can transform their organizations, enabling them to flourish in a faster-paced, more complex world. In addition to learning the Seven Dimensions of Business Agility, participants will begin their transformation journey by applying key insights to the real-world issues and opportunities faced by their own organizations.

> Who Should Attend

This workshop is designed for executives focused on designing or leading business transformation in industries undergoing significant disruption.

> What Participants Will Learn

Participating leaders will:

- Explore the shift from a complicated to complex business environment and the implications for how organizations are run
- Define the role leaders must play in building more responsive and adaptive businesses
- Learn the foundational Seven Dimensions of Business Agility
- Determine where and how to begin your enterprise's business agility transformation

Check Dates and Register Here:
www.icl.institute/site/events.html

INSTITUTE FOR CONTEMPORARY
LEADERSHIP

12 E 49th Street, 5th Floor

New York, NY 10017

888.273.7415

www.ContemporaryLeadership.com

info@ContemporaryLeadership.com